A Positive Character Trait – Respect

By Skylar Mable
Chapin Elementary School

Respect is listening and being quiet while someone is talking and just being kind.

People all across the world are being bullied and you can change the world just by being respectful

What is respect? Respect is being kind and responsible.

There are lots of ways to be respectful. One single thing you can do to show respect is doing the laundry for your parents instead of watching TV. I mean how hard is that?

What are ways you can show respect? I know I have talked a lot about how to show respect, but the list is endless. One big example is when you say the Pledge of Allegiance. Put your hand over your heart. When you have a moment of silence you can close your eyes and thank our veterans for the sacrifices they made to save your country.

To me, that is what respect is all about.

Each month, one of the five Chapin schools will elect a student to provide the community with his or her interpretation of a selected positive character trait. This is being sponsored by the Chapin Woman's Club.
